The standard dbFX rollover fees will not apply to this commission account. Deutsche Bank will advise you from time to time of the current commission fee. Commission fees on all account types are subject to change at any time. dbFX reserves the right to change the commission charge or convert this account to a standard dbFX account in its sole discretion at any time. In addition, please be advised that any and all accounts in the name of, or associated with, the account holder(s), will be subject to this agreement.

Since the risk factor is high in the foreign exchange market trading, only genuine "risk" funds should be used in such trading. If Account Holder does not have the extra capital he can afford to lose, he should not trade in the foreign exchange market
